

Testimonials for John Hotowka

Nate Nevas

Director, Total Rewards and HR M&A at Pitney Bowes

November 3, 2020, Nate was a client of John's

We invited John to participate in the first ever Pitney Bowes Mental Well-Being week and to present to our employees on the importance of resilience. The week was very well received in large part to John's presentation. He was funny, engaging, and honest, and most importantly had a great message to tell about the importance of resilience with straight-forward tips that everyone can use. His interactions with the audience were wonderful and certainly helped the great feedback that we received. John's very easy to work with and his prep work for the presentation was a genuine effort to learn about PB culture and our employees. It allowed him to naturally interweave PB specific information while he was speaking, which the audience appreciated. Overall, a memorable experience that easily met expectations. See less

Deborah Guest

Personal & Virtual Assistant at PwC

June 25, 2020, Deborah was a client of John's

I was lucky to attend a 1 hour virtual session by John in June 2020. I found it incredibly helpful on both a professional and personal level. The content was extremely relevant, topical and timely during the COVID-19 outbreak and will definitely help me with resilience strategies. I will be recommending it to all my colleagues and have taken away a great deal from the session.

John brilliantly adapted to a virtual setting, he really knows how to engage the audience and motivate and I loved the interactive element. Having short fun breaks invigorated me and meant my mind was more receptive to the messages. The Magic element of the session was so unique and made it even more enjoyable for me. Thank you John - you are such a talented presenter!

John spoke as a keynote on the topic of resilience at the December end of year BBO PA Network event to an audience of over 40 Executive Assistants. Energetic, engaging and great content with takeaways that resonated with every single person at the event. As a collective group (a pretty tough audience too!), we hadn't laughed like we did in a long time. John's great sense of humour and ability to command a 'Zoom Room' = the perfect mix! Thank you so much John, I'd be more than happy to act as a reference for you and would highly recommend you to anyone looking for a great speaker. See less
